FOR PURE FOOD.

Exposition Opens Thursday at the Big Convention Hall.

Men are what they are fed on. This being true it seems probable that the people of this city are going to become pretty near perfect in a short time. That at any rate is the object of the pure food exposition, which opens at Convention Hall on Thursday. Mr. Harrison S. Barbour of James L. Barbour & Son, and Mr. Lehland Burdette are the managers of the affair, which is to be given under the auspices of the Wholesale Grocers' Association. No better place can be imagined for a big exposition of this character than Convention Hall. The floor space available is said to be the largest in any hall in the country, and exhibitors will be enabled to make their displays without any of the crowding which has been such a drawback on former occasions. There will be a large number of attractive features at the exposition and if there is anything in regard to pure food that cannot be picked up at the hall, the managers would like to be informed of it.

Each afternoon at 4 o'clock Miss Helen Louise Johnson will lecture on scientific and artistic cooking. Miss Johnson is well known, socially, in this city, while as the editor of Table Talk her abilities as a coneditor of Table Talk her abilities as a consistent and vigorous fighter against the sway of king dyspepsia are thoroughly appreciated. It is expected that Miss Johnson's lectures will be the means of bringing peace and comfort to many unhappy and discordant households. New methods and apparatus will be described and shown by Miss Johnson and practical exhibitions given of how a dinner really should be prepared and served.

by Miss Johnson and practical given of how a dinner really should be prepared and served.

The presence at the exposition each afternoon and night of the Marine Band will greatly add to the pleasure of the visitors. Nearly all the floor space has been piocaeu off, and on Thursday will present an artistic appearance. Green foliage and flags of all colors have been used liberally in decorating. The exhibits also will be of a decorative character. The American Cereal Company will have him exhibition with a windmill and panorama. Another novelty will be a Ferris wheel in operation, white a miniature brewery will show how the Bartholomay Brewing Company makes its beer. An attractive part of the exhibition will be a fine stereopticon exhibition, under the directions of L. A. Roginski, who will the directions of L. A. If this is lacking, says the Evening Telegraph, the passenger can buy on the platform at any station a teapot full of tea and a cup for 21-2 cents. The tea pot is pretty enough to bring a quarter in this country, and the cup would quarter in this country, and the cup would be cheap at 10 cents. You buy the whole "out;" and could carry it away if you pleased. As a rule, the pot and cup are left in the car, and about (3) per cent of them are recovered by the vender.

known as the high license law wrought many changes in the liquor traffic during the year just ended. Not only did Congress make the license tax heavier, but provision was made for the punishment of its violators, which has, beyond question, made it much harder for violators of the law to carry on their business than it was under the old law. The penalties are increased in proportion to the increase in the license tax, and upon second conviction a sentence of imprisonment is provided. Then, too, the regulations governing the conduct of the regulations governing the conduct of the business are more stringent, and the saloon has to be left on Sunday so that the interior may be seen from the outside. Liquor selling in drug stores, which was done to a large extent on Sundays, is pre-vented by the new law, and the penalty is so severe that the druggists do not care to take the changes. take the chances, and consequently those who do not lay in their supply on Saturday are likely to go dry on the Sabbath. The enforcement of this law largely increased the revenue of the District and at the same time reduced the number of drinkin, places Judging from information gleaned from the police and officials there are many of the so-called "speak-easies" in operation, and many proprietors of them have already been detected and punished.

Judge Kimball's Opinion. Speaking of the manner in which the new law has operated. Judge Kimball told a Star reporter that so far as he had observed it was working first-rate.

"One of the best things the law has done," said the judge, "is the cutting off of so many of what were known under the old law as wholesale places and places where beer was sold by the bottle and permitted to be drunk upon the premises. In these places, according to the proof in many of them, the beer was soid at 5 cents a bottle and the purchasers were permitted to drink the beer from the bottle, but were not furnished glasses.
"Yes," he added, "the effect of the law so far as I am able to judge from cases brought to court is certainly good. The law, in ad-dition to imposing a heavier license tax and penalty, enables the police to have better control over the liquor business. The law

"Again, a new departure is made in the law in compelling all incorporated clubs to procure a license, and subjecting them to the incidental regulations which attach to and follow the license. The new law makes no distinction between such places and an ordinary bar room, so far as the regulations are concerned. They can, however, procure a permit to sell between certain hours, which must be designated in the permit treat

"Now the new act makes a very material and important change in the law in respect to the necessary evidence of an ununlicensed bar. Under the old law it was necessary to show a business, but the new law provides that every bar room shall be licensed, and then prescribes what shall constitute and make the place a bar room. Every place where liquor, &c., is sold to be drunk on the premises is a bar room under drunk on the premises is a bar room under the act, and, in addition, the act makes the possession of liquor, with the means and ap-pliances for conducting a business, prima facie evidence of a bar room, and where-ever this evidence is found a sale is not required in order to convict of the offense of unlicensed bar." From the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. The Edison phonograph works at this place are expected to resume operations next week. The skilled employes will then begin turning out a new style of phonograph, differing in a number of particulars from the machine now on the market. Thomas A. Edison has devoted himself to the new invention at his laboratory for some time, shutting himself up night and day, like an old monk in a cloister, as he always does on such occasions. He has been successful, and the new arrangement will not only be sold at a cheaper price than the old machine sells for, but the cylinders have been so adjusted that just double the former number of words can be placed thereon. The old cylinders placed thereon. The old cylinders capacity of 100 lines, while the new ones will receive 200 lines. New batteries have been devised which, while much less expensive, are even more effective than the ones now in use. This instrument is of the nickel-in-the-slot type of machine, has been called the kinetograph, and is intended to outvie the instantaneous process of photography, in that, by means of the peculiar mechanism with which it is provided, a series of photographs, about forty to the minute, can be taken. William Sinclair Crewe, charged with swindling, has been recognized by Police Justice Grady in New York as "Lord" Slinting of the act commonly known as the Soldiers' years ago.

"It is quite manifest that penalties such as these will deter an ordinary man from violating the law. So you see, if the saloon-keepers will permit a little gratuitous advice. As yet the new instrument has no combined that the spectators could see the well-timed that the spectators could see the scenes repeated in the machine. As yet the new instrument has no combined wheel-lieve that its possibilities as a means of the number of illicit places in this District. It is really surprising; but, of course, it is difficult to locate such places and much more difficult to locate such places and much more difficult to procure evidence to bring the hundreds of thousands who would wish to see the meeting between Corbett and the hundreds of thousands who would wish to see the meeting between Corbett and the number of lilicit places in this District. It is really surprising; but, of course, it is distinguished. It is really surprising the law. So you see, if the saloon-keepers will permit a little gratuitous advice.

The procure reproduced so perfectly and so well-timed that th gave its first Christmas social gathering Saturday evening at the club rooms, 538 6th street southeast, and notwithstanding the unfavorable weather, had a large and enthusiastic attendance. The first part of the evening the rooms and the library were thrown open to the inspection of those present. The exercises opened with a hymn by the young people, Miss Alice Kimball presiding at the organ. Mrs. Judge Kimbail next read two selections, which were very entertaining, followed by the rendition of the anthem, "Glory to God in the Highest," by the young ladies' portion of the club, Miss Mattie Johnston as soloist. Candy was then bountifully distributed to all. One feature of the affair was the beautiful Christmas tree, which was donated by Miss Mark Swem, daughter of Pastor E. Hes Swem, and which was decorated with popcorn and oranges, making a magnificent display. Later on in the evening the popcorn and oranges were clipped from the tree and distributed by Mr. Albert Warren of the Metropolitan Baptist Sunday school. Coffee and cake were then served by the ladies, and after a most enjoyable evening, the party disbanded. Miss Emma Harper Turner, Miss Mattie Kimball, Miss Grace Mills, Miss Harman, Miss Lutie Gary, Miss Doniphian and Miss Slaughter had the matter in charge and deserve credit for the piezs-Miss Mattie Johnston as soloist.
